Description

An elegant pair of solid silver table lamps dating from the 1950s. These highly decorative pieces are distinguished by their refined, Asian-inspired design, their colorful enamel decorations, and their solid silver construction.Both lamps bear hallmarks, including a star-shaped mark, attesting to their construction from precious metal.The combination of silversmithing and enamel work gives these objects a unique character, reflecting the fascination with Asian artistic traditions that shaped European decorative arts throughout the 20th century.Solid silver and decorative enamelingAccording to the information provided, these lamps are made of solid silver--not silver-plated metal.Their surfaces are adorned with decorative enamels, adding color and ornamental richness to the silver structure.The
