Description

Large Gothic-style candleholder - Wrought iron - 184 cmLarge freestanding candleholder, which appears to be made entirely of wrought iron. Its square-section shaft, punctuated by protruding rings, ends in a long central spike designed to hold a candle.Four curved arms extend from the shaft and terminate in stylized animal heads, some of which feature a small hook. The base, with its four arched legs, is adorned with twisted motifs that echo the curves of the arms and give the piece its Gothic appearance.Presented in its original condition, with a dark patina, traces of oxidation, and surface irregularities visible in the photos.Total height · 184 cmPeriod · To be determined
