Description

Elegant Art Deco-era city cane, topped with a knob depicting a stylized elephant with the geometric lines characteristic of the 1930s.Beautiful deep red handle made of phenolic resin, Bakelite, Catalin, or another material visually similar to cherry amber, which was in vogue at the time. It offers subtle shimmer in the light. It rests on a speckled wooden shaft with meticulous craftsmanship, featuring a square cross-section at the top that gradually tapers and rounds to ward the base. The entire cane is finished with a metal ferrule.It measures 35,82 inches in length.A beautiful example of the decorative canes that were in vogue during the interwar period, combining the charm of the new synthetic materials of the era with a refined modernist aesthetic.
