Description

A charming figurative netsuke carved from boxwood and patinated, circa 1950-1960, depicting a humorous animal scene: a rat pulling a turtle--which is lying on its back--using a twisted rope.The carving is exquisitely executed, featuring rich detail and a beautiful expression on both animals, whose eyes are inlaid with dark material--likely polished horn or small glass beads. The artist's signature is on the rat's belly.Condition : Very good condition with a beautiful, warm brown patina; no chips or damage.Length: 7.6 cm.Shipped with an invoice--fast, careful, and very secure.Buy with confidence: find our customer reviews by searching for "Antiquités Déquier" on Google.
