Description

A gilded bronze mantel clock, adorned with finely crafted polychrome enamel panels. Signed and dated 1905, this piece is in the tradition of early 20th-century decorative arts.The case features an elegant design, structured by fluted columns and embellished with classically inspired ornamentation. At the center, the circular dial stands out for the delicacy of its numerals and its understated aesthetic, contrasting harmoniously with the richness of the surrounding decoration.A remarkable enamel plaque occupies the central part of the composition. It depicts an interior scene animated by figures dressed in the fashion of the era. The meticulous rendering of the figures, the variety of tones, and the precision of the details attest to particularly careful decorative work.Through the combination of gilded bronze
