Description

A monumental English bookcase from the Victorian era, dating approximately from 1870 to 1890, made of mahogany veneer.The bookcase features a three-part projecting central section, also known as a "breakfront." The three tall doors are glazed, with rounded upper corners, and provide access to several wooden shelves.The bookcase is topped by a molded cornice and rests on a continuous base. The back consists of traditional wooden panels. The mahogany veneer has a warm reddish-brown color with a very pronounced wood grain.Slight signs of wear consistent with its age.Dimensions: 206H x 219L x 51P
