Description

Pair of 19th-century electrified gilded bronze wall sconces in the Louis XVI styleDated to the late 19th century, this pair of gilded bronze wall sconces embodies the French artisanal and cultural heritage of artistic bronze work in the Louis XVI style, stamped "EC 948" on the back.Electrified, they can be used to illuminate a staircase, the sides of a mirror, or a window in a bourgeois home, a luxurious apartment, or rooms in a château.In very good overall condition, with slight chips at the top edges of the candles. The bronze patina is excellent, perfectly highlighting the garlands and the three arms that make up the design. If you'd prefer to use them solely as candleholders, the electrical components can be removed.Fast and careful shipping to France, Europe, and worldwide.Dimensions per piece->
