Description

A Chinese scholar's desk accessory for calligraphy and ink painting, modelled as a range of five rounded mountain peaks. The ceramic is covered in a pale ivory glaze with a pronounced network of dark crackle in the Ge ware style.The three central peaks have circular openings. The two smaller openings are suited to holding brushes upright, while the wider central opening may have served as a small brush washer. The five-peak silhouette evokes China's Five Sacred Mountains.The piece is in good condition and shows signs of use, with traces of black ink still visible inside the openings.Width 11.2 cm.Two museum examples share the same five-peak profile, pale crackled glaze and arrangement of three openings.The Middlebury College Museum of Art catalogues its 11.75 cm example as a "Ge
