Description

A charming pair of oil-on-panel paintings depicting two scenes of life along the Bosphorus. The artist delicately portrays figures in traditional costumes, seated at a café overlooking the blue waters of the strait. Beautiful Orientalist compositions, luminous and full of poetry.Monogrammed in the lower corner.The artist: Augustine Philippon-Simonet was a late 19th-century French painter and miniaturist. A student of Charles Donzel and Henri-Louis Le Vasseur, she exhibited at the Salon des Artistes Français beginning in 1884. Her work reflects a taste for genre scenes, landscapes, and Orientalist subjects.Presented in their beautiful gilded wooden frames carved with twisted scrollwork.An elegant pair of antique paintings with Orientalist charm.
