Description

DescriptionIn this original colour lithograph, Eduard Alcoy depicts a figure balancing a white-sailed boat on their head and pointing towards a small butterfly. Copper-brown curls and flowing black hair frame the face, while a turquoise and yellow sash crosses the ochre jacket. Fine black lines trace the boat's rigging and the dense foliage below, with flashes of red and a strip of blue set against a slate-grey sky. Floating discs and checkerboard motifs give the scene a playful, enigmatic quality rooted in Surrealism. The strong vertical composition works well displayed on its own, where the delicate linework and small symbols can be seen up close.ArtistEduard Alcoy (1930-1987) was a Spanish or Catalan artist.Artist DetailsThe Catalan title translates as Castaways and Sailors.
