Description

An elegant set of decorative furniture from the 1970s, consisting of a two-shelf rolling sideboard and three nesting tables, made of gilded brass with bamboo-inspired decoration and smoked-tinted glass tops.In the style of designs by Maison Jansen or Maison Baguès, this set stands out for the delicacy of its gilded brass frames, which mimic bamboo stalks punctuated by stylized knots, as well as for the elegance of its proportions.The serving cart features two rectangular smoked glass trays, framed in gilded brass, and rests on four casters. The three nesting tables, in descending order of size, feature the same design and nest one inside the other.The combination of gilded brass and smoked glass gives this set a refined aesthetic, characteristic of 1970s decorative furniture, in the spirit of the
