Description

Anna Prinner, a painter, printmaker, sculptor, and ceramicist born in Budapest, decided to settle in Paris in 1927 and adopted a male identity under the name Anton Prinner.Counting among her friends some of the greatest artists of the early 20th century--such as Picasso, André Breton, Viera Da Silva, and many others--Anton Prinner was particularly interested in the occult sciences, mystical philosophies, and Egyptology...Here, then, is a typical example of work steeped in these influences: a fireplace screen featuring a smoked glass panel supported by two gilded bronze statues in the shape of shamans holding magic staffs.Generous dimensions; 40 cm high x 70 cm wide for the glass panel22 cm high for each statue.The glass is in perfect condition; the two gilded bronze statues have been superficially
