Description

A sculpture crafted from solid, transparent glass, blown and hot-shaped, with rich inclusions of gold leaf that give it amber-colored highlights. The mane is crafted using glass-cutting pliers from clear and gold-colored glass, resting on a thick circular base.Signed with a point under the base: Archimede Seguso.Italian Murano work, circa 1960-1970.*Archimede Seguso (1909-1999) was a direct descendant of the Seguso dynasty, which had been established in Murano since 1397.Trained by his father within this historic lineage, he co-founded Seguso Vetri d'Arte in 1933 before establishing his own workshop, the Vetreria Artistica Archimede Seguso, in 1946. He is renowned for his virtuosity in hot-forming solid glass, his refined use of gold leaf, and his animal sculptures with
