Description

Mithé ESPELT was born in 1923 in Lunel. She died there in 2020. A French ceramicist, she studied drawing and sculpture in Montpellier alongside Pierre Soulage and Valentine Schelgel. She then learned the craft of ceramics under Emilie Decanis. After an apprenticeship in Paris, she opened her own studio in Lunel in 1946. There, she crafted jewelry, boxes, and mirrors. Uninterested in recognition or leaving a legacy, Mithé Espelt never signed any of her works. Recognizable by their bold colors and playful shapes, her pieces are prized around the world. This hand mirror made of stamped clay from the 1950s is adorned with a red and green enameled motif, and the rim of the mirror is orange. It is embellished with a red ceramic bead hanging from a small chain. The cost for packaging,
