Description

A kilim rug from Afghanistan, part of an ancient textile tradition renowned for the richness of its patterns, the strength of its geometric compositions, and the uniqueness of its craftsmanship.Unlike knotted rugs, kilims are made using a flat-weaving technique, giving them a distinctive structure and aesthetic. This tradition, deeply rooted in Afghan culture, produces pieces prized for their authenticity, character, and wide variety of decorative designs.Afghan kilims hold a special place in the world of Oriental rugs, particularly for their tribal spirit and their ability to bring personality and warmth to an interior. They blend seamlessly into both traditional decor and contemporary spaces, where their graphic design and textural presence create a particularly striking contrast.Measuring
