Description

This very elegant Japanese fundame lacquer box is shaped like a half-open fan, right down to the detail of the small rivet depicted at its base. On the lid, fine golden rays stand out against a dark background, tracing the ribs of the fan. They extend into the folds of the fan, rendered in slight relief, where the light creates a play of pale gold and bronze tones. A delicate gold-line decoration adorns the sides. The lid lifts to reveal an interior with a finely speckled gold background. Some wear on the lacquer is visible on the raised areas and edges.
