Description

An antique Hereke rug from Turkey, made entirely of silk, showcasing the refinement and excellence of the Turkish textile tradition. Hereke rugs are renowned for the fineness of their weave, the quality of their craftsmanship, and the nobility of the materials used, making these pieces particularly prized by collectors of Oriental rugs.The silk gives this rug a delicate, supple, and luminous texture, revealing subtle shimmer depending on the angle of the light. The craftsmanship associated with the Hereke tradition is distinguished by its precision and attention to detail, making these rugs highly sought-after for their elegance and precious character.This rug also features the weaver's signature, adding further interest to the piece and attesting to its unique craftsmanship.
