Description

Description :This French giltwood guéridon, dating to circa 1900, brings together the curved lines of Louis XV furniture and the more regular ornament of the Louis XVI style. Its circular top is inset with creamy white marble, crossed by bold gray-green veins that deepen to near black in places, with softer touches of beige and ochre. A molded giltwood rim frames the stone, with a narrow band of repeating foliate ornament in relief.The round apron is decorated with beading and a ribbon-twist molding. Rosettes mark the top of each of the four cabriole legs, with trailing leaves decorating their upper sections. The legs are joined by a caned lower shelf with concave sides. The open weave lets light through the base and emphasizes the sweep of the legs. The gilding has a mellow patina, with scattered rubs and
