Gallé Candy Box With Rose Design

900 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Diameter : 10.5

Height : 7

Description

Multilayered glass candy jar signed Émile Gallé - Rose designStunning multilayered glass candy jar signed Émile Gallé, circular and bulbous in shape, accompanied by its original lid. It features an elegant design of blooming roses, flower buds, and foliage, finely engraved in relief. The motifs stand out in rich shades of wine-red and purple against an amber-yellow background, offering a warm contrast and beautiful chromatic depth.The lid, adorned with a floral composition in relief, harmoniously echoes the decoration on the body. The finesse of the engraving precisely reveals the veins of the leaves and the details of the foliage, highlighting the artist's mastery of glassmaking.Émile Gallé (1846-1904), a leading figure of Art Nouveau and founder of the École de Nancy, devoted much of his work to the

Dealer

AntikVie
Art-Nouveau, Silverware & Napoleon III
Tel : 0658114469
Mobile : 0767885726

54 Rue Francois Peissel
Lyon 69300

observation and depiction of nature. A passionate botanist, he drew inspiration from flowers, plants, and landscapes, which he translated into his glass creations using sophisticated techniques of layering and engraving the glass.This candy dish perfectly illustrates his artistic world, where a rich palette of colors combines with delicate botanical motifs, making each object a true celebration of nature.