Description

Mahogany Louis XV-Louis XVI Transition-Style Chiller - 18th CenturyElegant 18th-century mahogany chiller in the Louis XV-Louis XVI Transition style.This piece features a remarkable three-tiered construction, resting on three curved wooden legs joined by three circular shelves. The two lower shelves are edged with beautiful openwork brass moldings, lending the piece great decorative finesse.The upper section, cylindrical in shape, is designed to hold the basin used for chilling bottles. The piece retains a beautiful patina and a warm mahogany color, which particularly highlight its elegant silhouette.The original zinc interior tray is missing.An original and refined serving piece, particularly decorative, reflecting the 18th-century taste for serving furniture that was both practical and
