Description

Contemporary-design desk or console table in glass and black-lacquered metalWith its sculptural form, this desk plays on the balance between the crystalline purity of glass and the graphic precision of black-lacquered steel.The piece rests on an architectural base composed of two wide, vertical flat-metal panels, connected by an angled tubular crossbar. This structural reinforcement incorporates a square steel plate that extends to the side, enlivening the silhouette and defining the piece's deliberate, controlled asymmetry.The thick, rectangular clear-glass top--featuring carefully polished edges that reveal a subtle, aquamarine-green tint--appears to float above its supporting structure. Through its transparency and clean lines, this desk integrates elegantly into both contemporary interiors and
