Description

A striking bronze bust with a brown patina depicting The Farrier, a famous subject from the Verismo works of the Milanese sculptor Achille Alberti (whose model was exhibited at the 4th Milan Triennale in 1900 and is now housed at the GAM in Milan). The work is striking for its intense, expressive rendering of the craftsman's aged face, furrowed with wrinkles and tilted in a meditative pose, with his characteristic cap on his head and the strap of his apron barely visible over his shoulders.  It rests on a cylindrical base of veined black marble. Signed A. Alberti, early 20th century. Dimensions: Height 45 cm (including base)
