Description

An elegant, symmetrical pair (pendant) of three-light wall sconces in gilt bronze/brass, executed in the Empire style and dating to the late 19th or early 20th century.

The wall plate is richly decorated with a fully sculpted swan, its wings outstretched to form an oval garland; it is surmounted by a stylized palmette and terminates at the base in a motif of leafy scrolls. The three arms--modeled as cornucopiae and featuring fine chased vegetal patterns and gadrooning--support flared drip pans and faux candles.

The original gilding retains a pleasing period
