Description

This mahogany trunk resembles a sturdy chest, whose deep patina reveals a long history of travel and voyages.Its rectangular structure, reinforced by black metal brackets and dovetail joints, is a testament to meticulous craftsmanship, designed to withstand journeys by train, ocean liner, or horse-drawn carriage. The wood, polished by time, still bears the marks of friction and handling, while the forged metal side handles retain the raw strength of utilitarian objects from days gone by. On both the top and the front, the name "P. Tessier," stenciled in white letters, affirms the owner's identity and gives the piece an almost military or administrative look. On the front, two functional locks with keys reinforce the impression of a precious object, designed to protect personal or professional belongings. A
