Description

France, second half of the 19th century.An exceptional centerpiece, exceptionally elegant and richly decorated, crafted from finely chiseled and gilded bronze during the Second Empire, in the refined Louis XVI style.Oval in shape and elongated, the piece is adorned at each end with a delicately sculpted winged putto. Their graceful and animated poses create a harmonious contrast with the symmetrical composition of the piece as a whole.The front features a rich decoration of floral motifs, acanthus leaves, beaded friezes, and an imposing central cartouche. The finesse of the chiseling, the warm hues of the gilding, and the elegance of the proportions attest to the high quality of craftsmanship of 19th-century French bronze artists.This table centerpiece features a removable inner tray, making it both decorative
