Completely knotted by hand, pure wool, vegetal dyeing, cotton weft, size: 2,95mx2,00m. A Tabriz carpet is a type of Persian carpet.Tabriz, northwestern Iran was a historic carpet production center and is a well-known area for its court carpets such as the Ardabil carpet. After the middle of the 19th century, Tabriz revived its carpet production and became a production center for export to Europe and elsewhere. The Tabriz carpet is of particular importance. It was in the workshops of the city that the first carpets were made for export. After having sent old carpets abroad, the merchants began to produce them themselves in workshops, according to the measures and colors ordered by the European merchants. This may be one of the reasons why this carpet is not distinguished by a particular
