Description

We know very little about this fabulous pastellist Paul Ducrest: he worked during the last third of the nineteenth in the whole of the eastern half of France, even making incursions in Switzerland ... An accuracy that does not exclude poetry, he seems to catch the light to put it on his pastels! Here, this river edge animated by a boat with sinner is reminiscent of the memory of Corot. Pastel 52X67 cm in a large frame late nineteenth wood and gold a little rugged, recent pH neutral installation.
Can do pendant with the previous one.
