Description

I bought this album before becoming a merchant, in other words a little after the Cretaceous !
An amateur of the time collected the humor drawings of the newspapers of the War of 14-18 and stuck them in this album with the golden title "The War: The Newspapers". When I talk about humor, you have to have some historical keys to understand some and others are downright horrible, you will see some examples in the photos.
Printed on acidic newsprint and glued to the strong glue in the album, they have sometimes aged badly, but the whole forms an extraordinary documentation.
Half green percaline binding with corners about 38 X 24 cm, green silk dishes with golden letters.
The whole being tired and partially derelict.
