Description

But who did that to me? To bring this charming picture in an unsuitable setting, they did not hesitate to shorten it on one side and, so to do, the one where the signature is! Fortunately, only the abbreviation of the name has suffered, leaving the full name once removed from the frame ... This "Spanish dancer" dates from the end of the life of the artist Eugène Péchaubès (1890-1967), more used to cavalier representations and who, perhaps on the occasion of an order, brushed quickly but surely this composition on a cardboard cloth 2F but currently 24 X 18,5 cm.
