Description

" The Small Circus Of Street " big chromolithography of the XIXth century "
Important chromolithography stuck on canvas and dating the 2nd half of the XIXth century.
A funny scene of genre" the arrest of the small itinerant circus" doubtless situated in Italy or Great Britain"
The group is treated well and faces, animals, attitudes return exactly the atmosphere of this period, with these itinerant fairground people trying to collect some money sometimes while robbing the spectators during the show.
Colors are still fresh and the group is framed by a big wooden frame and a stucco gilded with a light lack, look, please, at photos.
Beautiful chromolithography very good state and stuck on canvas, no tears, a protective varnish in
