Description

The rue Saint Sulpice and the rue des Prêtres Saint Séverin, here are two streets full of charm of this Paris that we love so much and two churches that recall memories to all the old Parisians and to those who had the pleasure to walk in their neighborhoods . Contemplating these two watercolors plunges us into places reminiscent of Saint Germain des Prés and the Latin Quarter, the evenings between students, the terraces of cafes and the almost provincial streets with enchanting names and the most beautiful place in the world or at least the most romantic, "the place Furstemberg" where it is good hang out and that sends us back to a rich past of the big and the little story. These watercolors are highlighted by pretty sticks veneer frame. They are signed V. Schlienger lower left Period: March
