Description

Terracotta sculpture representing two young fauns or satyrs caressing and feeding a goat with grapes, signed Charles Perron *, on a gilded wooden base, vintage late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. This sculpture is in good condition. It is signed on the edge. A note: slight small accidents and tiny splinters (see red arrows, on the edge of the sculpture and the neck of a satyr), wear and scratches of time, slight wear of the gilding on the base, see photos. * Charles Théodore Perron (1862-1934): his most famous work, "L'Epave", a marble statue inspired by a poem by François Coppée, is exhibited at the Salon of 1897. He is also responsible for "L'Espièglerie" "(1899) and " Surprise "(1899), finally many decorative groups and some bronzes of edition. (See Bronzes of the XIXth century by
