Gustave MADELAIN (French, 1867-1944) Born in Charly, this noted French Impressionist painter studied in Paris and, beginning in 1907, exhibited with success at the Salon des Independants where he received numerous prizes for his landscapes and city views. Madelain has become associated particularly with scenes of Montmartre and the left bank of the Seine, often with monumental architectural subjects pictured in the evening and observed with a subtle, tonalist palette.

Madelain's retrospective (Paris, 1926) was a great success with six architectural works purchased by
