Description

Louis XVI mahogany cylinder desk, ormolu decoration, France, late 18th century, circa 1780, stamp of Pierre Macret.

Cylinder desks were created at the end of Louis XV reign ; they are mechanical pieces of furniture, which allows - once closed - to keep the work spread on the desktop confidential.

Excellent condition, completely restored with a new varnish. Very nice piece of collection.

Total height : 105cm

Length : 114cm

Depth : 61cm

working tray height : 73cm
