This painter, whose criticism and art historians seem to have forgotten everything, yet many illuminated canvases of the sun of Provence. The Martigues, Cagnes-sur-Mer, Saint-Tropez, Nice, their ports, their narrow streets and many Mediterranean landscapes Saint-Tropez or Martigues are not the only villages on the Côte d'Azur to fascinate painters.

The pretty little village of Cagnes-sur Mer, located about ten kilometers from Nice, perched on a hill that rises to 90 meters above sea level, offers the view of the walls of its old castle, the one that the lord Rainier 1er Grimaldi began erect
