Description

Vintage Consulate armchair, late eighteenth / early nineteenth, beech. This seat was to be lacquered at the origin, in fact old traces of paint are still visible in places in the pores of the wood. Decoration of small palmettes on the uprights of the armrests, feet sabers in the back, tapered feet in the front, ornamentation of small rosettes in the dice of connection of the belt. The set is in good condition, the trim is still firm and comfortable, only the cover fabric shows signs of wear and detaches a little behind the backrest (see photo).
