Arms on Chinese Porcelain in the 18th Century" (page 133). These are the coat of arms of the Marquis Visdelou de Bonamour and the Boschat d'Uzel family, both from Brittany. Representative on the left: Argent, with three heads of sand wolf, torn and langued Gules; Right: sand, cat passing ermines. Support: two lying wolves. This service was commissioned for François-César de Visdelou de Bonamour, lord of Liscoët. He was captain of the king and in 1782 he was amputated of the left leg on the "Duke of Burgundy" in a naval fight with the English. He was promoted Knight of St. Louis. He married on April 11, 1755 Marie-Madeleine Boschat d'Uzel, daughter of Mathurin ennobled in 1768 and Françoise Grangiens. Mathurin worked as a groomer and was one of the most important of the Quintin Royal Canvas Factory in Brittany.
