Description

Original and beautiful mahogany secretary with three drawers in front, with brass rods (some glued together), handles, keyholes and bronze clogs. It is rare and unusual to find a flap above the cylinder, discovering locker and drawers. The sliding writing tablet is sheathed with a red leather of gilded origin with a small iron. White marble top with openwork brass gallery. The bottom is fir and drawers are mounted oak, it has all its keys and the locks are in working order. In good general condition, late period L.XVI or early nineteenth.
