Large Portrait Of A Romantic Violinist, Nineteenth Century

2 900 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Oil painting

Width : 72 cm de large et 92 cm avec le cadre

Height : 97 cm de large et 117 cm avec le cadre

Description

Important romantic portrait of a violinist from 1811.
This is a beautiful oil on canvas, a romantic school depicting a large bust of a probably Italian violinist: annotation "Angelo Colom" on the back of the painting and marked 1811 on the canvas on the back.
the man is styled in the style of the empire era and poses in a dress in front of a chair on which we can see his violin on his left, scores and a book called "sensitivity" on a desk on his right.
the painting is of good quality, the face is pleasant and the hairstyle neat. He is wearing the laundress and a lace shirt.
At its belt we can see a chatelaine with a seal marked AC.
the composition is well studied and of good

Dealer

Antoine Claeys - Maison du XVème
antiquaire généraliste
Mobile : 06 85 53 27 42

24 grande Rue Nogent l'Artaud 02 310

quality, framed in a large frame of empire style in wood and gilded stucco, later. some small restorations on the canvas at the back.
a large and beautiful painting of the early nineteenth century, decorative and bright for fans of portraits of musicians and more specifically violinists.
if you can enlighten me on the identity of this character, I will be delighted!
We deliver and ship anywhere in the world, thank you for contacting us for a precise quote.