end of the reign of Louis-Philippe, at the initiative of the Pannier brothers, that the store expanded its activity to the furniture trade, and began to manufacture cabinet-making furniture around 1870. L'Escalier de Cristal specialized in copying 18th century furniture. The quality and execution of these pieces of furniture are such that sometimes they were taken for originals. The Crystal Staircase won the gold medal at the Universal Exhibition in Paris in 1900. The house was finally closed in 1923.
