Description

Portrait of Anne de Pisseleu, known as Madame de Lucé. Born around 1520, she is the niece of the Duchesse d'Etampes, favorite of François 1er. She married around 1540 Louis de Coesmes lord of Lucé, killed in front of Orleans in 1562. The original of this portrait of the School of Clouet dates from the 1550s. His daughter Jeanne married François de Bourbon, Prince of Conti. Two painted portraits of her are in the Uffizi Museum in Florence. In a frame in the style of the time.
