This cartel is highlighted by bronzes gilded and chiseled: the lower part is decorated with a staple in its center framed by rushes extending on palmettes. The upper part including the movement is embellished with foliage beaded on both sides of a decorative frieze. The central part opens on a door embellished by a decorative motif surmounted by a rooster and a lion. The upper part of the central body is embellished with four Spanish plumets. The whole is overshadowed by a tarred garland adorned in the middle by a stylized foliage palmette supporting a flower vase. The movement is drawn to indicate hours, quarters and halves.
