Description

Pair of middle tables, decorated on all four sides. The hoofed horse legs, connected together by a central arch spacer, as well as the curvaceous belt in a brace on the short side and double brace on the long side, finely hemmed, everything allows to attribute these two tables at the end of the Ming or early Qing period. The quality of assembly of these tables allowed them to cross the centuries without fail, and their aesthetic value in pair, of origin, allows to integrate them easily with our decorations.
