Description

Two Baluster-shaped Paris porcelain vases; Winged Sphinx-shaped handles; the sides are decorated on one side with scenes of puttis playing with their arrows and on the other on a matt blue background with matt and shiny golden ornaments. The circular foot placed on a marble base (?). The mastery of these various techniques allows us to attribute this work to Dominique Denuelle- Rue de Crussol. At that time Dominique Denuelle acquired a solid reputation for his mastery of matt gilding, he was the supplier of the Duchess of Berry. Late Empire Period early Restoration Period.
