Description

18th century canivet in the effigy of Sainte Éléonore / Éléonora contained in a wooden frame covered with leather, forming a holy water font above the head of the cherub.

this frame is neo Renaissance style, it is in average condition, the wood underneath has been eaten in the past by insects and is therefore hollow underneath, however it must have been treated because there are no traces of recent xylophagous.

the holy water font measures in total 31 cm x 16.5 cm.
