Description

Large lacquered beech armchair, from the Palace of Compiègne and stamped Jacob D Rue Meslée, from the Empire period. The armchair is upholstered with a grey blue velvet.

The readable number under the armchair corresponds to the 1855 inventory of the Château de Compiègne:

"2 painted wooden armchairs, turned legs square shape, covered in horsehair, covered in reps fabric, green and red lizard". This armchair, which was therefore part of a pair, was in the bedroom of apartment no. 12 located "cour des Bains, mezzanine on the 1st floor". They were sold in 1884.

The stamp Jacob D Rue Meslée was used between 1803 and 1813.
