Description

Ludovic VALLEE (1864-1939)

Oil on cardboard 32x24 cm "Village street"

Around 1910

Signed lower left

After classical training, Ludovic Vallée exhibited since 1903 at the Salons des Indépendants, the Nationale and the Tuileries.

This very sensitive landscape painter was influenced, at the start of his career, by Signac's Neo-Impressionism, from which he borrowed the division of tones.

The landscape of a village street is part of this interesting period when its manner is made of juxtaposed touch like the Pointillists.
