Description

Small pair of finely chiseled gilded bronze candlesticks, France mid-19th century

The elegant and refined pair of bronze candlesticks finely chiselled and gilded was made in France around the mid-19th century in Louis XVI style.

The tripod-shaped objects have a circular base decorated with a bay leaf band. The feet are inserted on the base with decorative elements with foliate motif. The body, suspended on the tripod and decorated with palmette motifs and foliate elements, is supported by a band decorated with geometric motifs.

The executive sophistication, the contained dimensions and the brightness of the gilded bronze give the objects easy adaptability, perfect
