Description

Superb large and rare 17th century copper painting. It represents a festive scene where different characters eat and drink around a table. A woman seated on the ground gives her breast to her child, in the background a young man serves wine to the guests, the whole against a backdrop of landscapes and architecture. the faces each give a different expression for this scene of life. Painting on copper very rare in this size, the colors have remained bright and bright, in excellent condition, very light use restoration. Presented in its old gilded wood frame with 2 old unreadable labels on the back.
