Description

Elegant 18th century rosewood and violet wood marquetry desk.

It is slightly curved on the sides and the uprights.

It has a wide flap and four drawers in three rows.

It was undoubtedly made by a carpenter from eastern France.

It has a refined decor enhanced with green tinted sycamore, herringbone and serrated patterns

The flap is lined with black leather serving as a writing desk.

Inside there are four drawers and five lockers on three levels as well as a secret.

This desk rests on four curved legs.

Work from Eastern France
